When claiming the Build and Publish AI Marketplace incentive, you may reach the engagement list and find it completely empty, or the screen may throw an error or load blank with no options to select. When this happens, there's nothing to select – so the claim can't be submitted.

The good news: this isn't a mistake on your side. It simply means the customer hasn't been switched on in Microsoft's systems yet – and it's easily fixable. There's no need to raise a Partner Support ticket. The short video below walks you through exactly what to do to get it resolved and resubmit.
