Selling through Microsoft Marketplace involves three parties: you (the software company), WeTransact and Microsoft. This page shows who is responsible for what at each stage, so you know what to expect and where to go for help.

🟣 Responsibilities at each stage

| Stage | You | WeTransact | Microsoft |
|---|---|---|---|
| Get listed | Set up Partner Center: publisher profile, tax and payout details. Create your product. | Provides the guides and tools, and publishes your offer. | Verifies your company and certifies the offer. |
| Transact | Build your private offers, guide your customer through procurement, and confirm the order. | Processes the offer and the order. | Hosts the transaction. |
| Get paid | Reconcile payments and order status, and register for incentives. | Shows every order and payout in one place. | Invoices the customer, collects the payment and pays you. |
| Co-sell | Share deals with Microsoft, build your better-together story and find your own opportunities. | Provides training, resources and deal sharing to Microsoft from your CRM. | Decides whether you are eligible for co-sell. |

This is the self-serve split on the WeLaunch plan. On the other plans, WeTransact takes on more of your side.

🟣 How it changes by plan

| TransactStellar (fully managed) | WeTransact manages your Microsoft incentives and runs co-sell campaigns end to end, with a weekly go-to-market advisor meeting and white-glove support. |
